Euro Liners provides a service to businesses, local government and the public for the hiring of transport. This will be performed in a manner that complies with the Health & Safety at Work Act 1974 with the guidance and commitment to continuous improvement.

The Health & Safety system defines the procedures and work instructions, which set the standards for doing all that is reasonably practicable to prevent personal injury and damage to property. In addition to the audits from site based management, external confirmation that standards are maintained is conducted by qualified H&S consultants through audits.

Every employee is required to co-operate with the provision and maintenance of the safe and healthy working conditions, to prevent themselves and any other person from being exposed to risk or injury as a result of their deeds or omissions. Specifically individuals are expected to: -

- Work safely and efficiently.
- Assess risks and eliminate hazards where possible
- Use the protective equipment provided.
- Ensure safety devices are being used as regulations and instructions state.
- Report all incidents and near misses using appropriate form.
- Co-operate and assist in the investigation of accidents and near misses with the objective of introducing control measures and training to prevent further incidents.
- Maintain a constant and continued interest in Health & Safety to promote continuous improvement.

Euro Liners has a commitment to ensure the highest standard of Health & Safety for all employees, customers and suppliers and to ensure that activities in regard to Health & Safety do not adversely affect the company.
